

ELLE
DECOR LOVES

SLEEP AT SEVEN

Six couture rooms in different shades, and a seventh, multifunctional space spell style in Seven, Pylin Jane Sanguanpiyapand's Bangkok boutique hotel

Located in the affluent residential area of Sukhumvit 31, Seven is tucked in a bylane, a stone's throw from the bustle. With the concept for its interiors inspired by Jane's family background in paints (they've run a pigment manufacturing business in Thailand since the 1950s) colours and Thai culture merged to produce a unique blend. Interestingly, according to their traditions, each day of the week is linked with a specific god and hue. Using this to her advantage, Pylin Jane and her team arrived at unusual themes, naming each chamber based on this belief. And the hostelry, Seven, was born. "Having had the opportunity to study in England, I got to see another world with a totally different culture, tradition and art scene..." shares Jane. Her passion for design comes from her travels as well as her job as Marketing Manager in the ancestral company, Paintworks. The best news – the boutique group is poised to expand to new locations, where the "concept will be completely fresh with inspiration drawn from the locality". ♦

Pramiti Madhavji

Clockwise from Top Left Friday is blue for Phra Suk (Venus); Saturday is purple for Phra Sao, the god Saturn; Thursday is orange for Jupiter – Phra Pareuhat; Sunday is red for the Sun god Phra Arthit. It is the seventh, multifunctional space that doubles up as the reception and bar, aptly named 7th Heaven; A fiery custom design mural perfectly complements the ultra comfortable, sink-in, communal table in 7th Heaven Website: www.sleepatseven.com

